Life Thoughts.

[Selections for the Alexandria Gazette.] Going into a village at night, with the lights gleaming on each side of the street, in some houses they will be in the basement and nowhere else, and in others in the attic and nowhere else, and in others in some middle chamber; but in no house will every window gleam from top to bottom. So is it with men's faculties. Most of them are in darkness. One shines here and another there; but there is no man whose soul is luminous throughout.

There is no greater cause of melancholy than idleness; no better cure than business. Better to do to no end than do nothing.

He that coveteth other men's goods he often loseth his own. In time past there was a dog which went over a bridge and held in his mouth a piece of flesh, and as he passed over the bridge he beheld the shadow of his own self, and of his piece of flesh within the water, and he, thinking that it had been another piece of flesh, forthwith thought to have taken it, and as he opened his mouth the flesh fell into the water, and thus he lost it. Right so it is with many an one; for when they think to rob another, they lose that they have of their own. - Esop Fables, 1658.

A church under the influence of veneration, merely, is a court house; and the Judge sits there, and cold officers are standing by him, and men are waiting to receive their sentence. God's Church is God's house; and God's house is our home, and a Christian's home ought to be bright, cheerful, and happy. Public sentiment signifies the common march of good men's thoughts. It should be but a road marked plain, that men may know the way to travel; but instead of this, public sentiment is employed sometimes as a bribe to stop free thinking; as an intimidation to check free acting: as a bauble to base approbativeness; or as a threatened fool's cap with which to terrify it. The virtues which public sentiment drills into cowards, may be of great benefit to society, but of little credit to the men upon whom they are dragooned. We ought to buoy for ourselves in our course, as we buoy a harbor. Off this shoal a black buoy floats, and says to those who sail by as plainly as if it spoke in all languages—"keep to the right here;" and over against it floats another, and says—"keep to the left here." Now in life's ocean, wherever we know the quick sands are, wherever we have once been stranded, let us sink the buoy and anchor of memory, and keep to the right or the left, as the shoal may be. As ships meet at sea, a moment together, when words of greeting must be spoken, and then away upon the deep, so men meet in this world; and I think we should cross no man's path without bailing him, and, if he needs, giving him supplies. Honor yourself, and you will be honored despise yourself, and you will be despised. The best of friends are those who stimulate each other to good. There is a tradition related by Fabricius, that when Noah planted the vine, Satan attended and sacrificed a sheep, a lion, an ape and a sow. These animals were to symboli e the gradations of drunkenness. When a m n begins to drink he is meek and ignorant as the lamb; then he becomes bold as the lion; h's courage is soon transformed into the foolishness of the ape; and at last he wallows in the mire

Conceited men often seem a harmless kind of men, who, by an overweening self-respect, relieve others from the duty of respecting them

THE EAST RIVER (N. Y.) BRIDGE.-Work on the Brooklyn tower of the East River Bridge is at present advancing, under the labor of two gangs of men, as rapidly as stone can be procured. Already it has been carried up above the roadway, which is 119 feet and 4 inches above high water, while 45 additional feet are sunk below this mark. Above the roadway it is to be carried up in three piers for 78 feet and ahalf, at which altitude will begin the spring of two Gothic arches, each 35 feet and 6 inches high. The apex of each arch, therefore, will be 114 feet above the level of the roadway.

From the top of the arches the tower is carried up in a solid mass. Thirty-five feet above the arches are the points where the cables cross, one passing through each of the outer edges and two through the tower in a line with the central pier. The height of this part is two hundred and sixty-eight feet and two inches above the level of high water. Above this, again, is a parapet, so that the whole height of the tower above high water mark will be two hundred and seventy-two feet and six inches.

At present about four hundred cubic yards of stone are laid, on an average, every two-and-a-half days. It is estimated that about five years' labor will be required to finish the entire work. The manufacture of the cables cannot be begun until the the towers and anchorages are fully completed, and this difficult process, which is liable to be greatly retarded by unfavorable weather, will require one year at least.

Of the four cables, each will be about sixteen inches in diameter, made up of wires only oneeighth of an inch in diameter, of which there will be about six hundred in a cable, each nearly three-quarters of a mile in length. The wires will be continuous, a mode of splicing being employed which will render the power to withstand a tensile strain equal throughout. The anchor plates at the ends of the cables will weigh twenty-three tons apiece.

The total weight of the iron wire in the bridge will be 65,000 tons, while there will be 70,000 cubic yards of masonry in both towers, and 44,000 in both anchorages. The strength of the cables will be sufficient to support six

It was designed to begin work on the anchorin obtaining possession of the sites, with various other drawbacks, it is doubtful whether this part of the work will be begun before next

Year by year their value has become more manifest, as demonstrated by largely increased sales, and we challenge any brand to show more satisfactory and uniform results. Confining our manufacture to materials of highest standard, as proved by analysis, we claim like results in all time. On the Wheat crop the testimony is of unquestionable character. We respectfully call attention to our popular Guano, known as GENUINE PHOSPHO-PERUVIAN GUANO,

The character of this Guano is so well known as to need but little further commendation from Used for many years, it has become a favorite with all consumers, and it only requires a trial to convince all of its value. The Ammonia and Bone Phosphate being in rational propor-tions, it can hardly fail to render satisfaction, improving the quality and increasing the crop— it adds one other most important essential in the permanent improvement of the land-in this particular we question whether it has its equal. It acts wonderfully upon the grass crop, and to such an extent as to bring improverished lands up to a high state of fertility—equalling Bone Dust. Such is the testimony of many accomplished planters. We have the closest investigaplished planters. We beg the closest investigation as to the integrity and manufacture of our compounds, and earnestly invite all consumers to inspect our works, material used, and mode of

The use of this Guano since its introduction, in 1864, and the annual increase of its consumption from a few hundred tons the first year of its use, to many thousands of tons, is the best at-testation to its value as an efficient agent for the increase of the products of agricultural labor, as well as to the integrity of its production.

The large capital invested by this Company in this business, and its unusal facilities, enables it to furnish a fertilizer of the highest excellence at the lowest cost to consumers. DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE.

DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds o this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease makes their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms. deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to that undiscovered country "from whence no traveller returns."

It is a melancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of ignorant or unskilful PRE-TENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destrey the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy suf ferer month after month taking their noxious or injurious compounds, and instead of being reinjurious compounds, and instead of being re-stored to a renewal of Life, Vigor and Happiness in despair leaves him with ruined Health, to sigh over his galling disappointment.
